Copperstone recruits Mining Manager for the Viscaria copper project

Copperstone Resources AB is recruiting meritorious Glenn Nilsson as Mining Manager, including responsibility for mining planning, for the Viscaria project in Kiruna. Glenn Nilsson has more than 30 years of experience from a number of leading positions within Boliden and Kaunis Iron, primarily in enrichment and production. He will play a crucial role in the feasibility studies and the technical parts of the Environmental Permit Application in the ongoing escalation prior to the reopening of the Viscaria mine.

"We are very pleased to announce that Glenn Nilsson will be Copperstone's Mining Manager in Kiruna. Glenn will have a very central role in the important phase we have entered before the reopening of the mine, and above all he will secure essential competence and continuity from project planning to operation", says Michael Mattsson, CEO of Copperstone in a comment.

About Glenn Nilsson

Glenn Nilsson has over 30 years of mining experience with leading positions from, among others, Boliden (Aitik and Kevitsa) and most recently as mining manager for Kaunis Iron AB. Glenn Nilsson was Production Manager / acting Mining Manager in Boliden Aitik for more than 10 years. Prior to that, Glenn Nilsson worked in LKAB contracting, Vattenfall with tunnel work, road and rock projects. As a resident in Malmfälten, he also has extensive local knowledge and a significant network in and outside the mining industry.

Glenn Nilsson will begin his employment at Copperstone on November 1, 2020.
